History

Bruchou Fernández Madero & Lombardi was founded in 1990 to provide consulting in a structurally vertiginous and changing economic context. It became a leader in the market of legal services in Argentina.

It possesses key technological tools which are highly sensitive. For this reason, it requires an efficiently protected Internet access, which allows remote connections through VPN clients which move throughout the world.

Grader presented a Project which protects the services of the law firm, considering the existence of a second redundant Internet connection. Remote users' authentication is performed by a Radius server (ACS Cisco Secure), which is capable of checking domain users' cards

Solutions

The outlined hardware projection stage was successfully performed by Grader's engineers. The system entered production timely and in the correct way. The different operative networking resources can be accessed remotely with an optimum security level, adding new features and services to the solid installed base.
